Public Water Ways.

Condensed Report of the Resolutions, Memorials and General Proceedof the Convention,

The Waterways Convention,

ES. Paul, Sept. 4.—The waterways convention was called to order at 10:0) a, m. Prayer was dispensed with. Mr. Chase of Omaha stated the resolutions had been perfected and would be reported as engrossed. He thought they would be generally acceptable. The convention asked liberal appropriations. The great northwest had paid a good part of it, and wanted a share of its benefits in the way of improved waterways. He protested Governor Stangard, of Missouri, wanted that no hostility was intended sgainst the matter sent to representatives, one from railroads. He then gave statistics, claim ing that one county in Nebraska had produced 8,000,000 bushels of corn last year, which was about as much as the rest of the United States had produced. His special plea was for the Missouri river, He claimed that the people of Nebraska were enfitled to a good portion of the surplus in the treasury.

Ignatius Donnelly took the platform and said the convention was an organized raid on the treasury of the United States. He said the framer had been advised to diversify in-dustries, he would advise tham to raise hell, (laughter and applause) What we want is cheap transportation by our water-ways, and if we don't get it there will be a revolution in this country. Railroads have taken possession of the government of this taken possession of the government of this country: their emissaries were even present on the floor of this convention.

Senator Eastice, of L misville, invited by the convention, proceeded to disabuse the public mind of the idea that there was any antagonism on the part of the south against the upper river improvements. He said to secure what is wanted there should be no division and there is none. You will find the visios, and there is none. You will find the southern representatives with you. The south was ready and anxious to join with the north in securing from congress such appropriation as may be needed to secure the betterment of the water ways. We must stand together from considerations of self-interest, if from no other, Applause ] He added that what was asked v the committee should not be considered as charity, but a just demand which must be granted. 'Your voice must and shall be head, and I pledge myself to voice your entiments in congress."

Hon, W. H. Hatch, tirst congressional discrict of Missouri, was invited to address the convention. He claimed that the Hennepin canal had no place in the house of representa-tives on the river and harbor bill, and it was what killed that bill in the last congress. His words proved that he was arrayed against the cause emphatically, and tended to elongate the cuutenances of the Illinois delegates. He said there was a singular coincidence between the speeches of ex Governor Bross and Cengressman Murphy, of Iows, but perhaps they had no significance (laughter). In conclusion he said he had come here as a citizen of the Mississippi valiey, not in the interest of any special interest, and declared his adherence to the principle that we had a right to all we ask. He never made an appeal in behalf of any scheme, and was always for the general good in the matter of furthering the nterests of commerce. The people of the Mississippi valley must receive what is due them by right. The people in the east have no idea of the greatness of the west. The west has been feeding the cow, the Yankee has been milking her, and he proposed to turn the cow around and let the west milk her a while.

[Laughter and applause.]
Clark E Carr, of Illinois, said: We must consider the wants of the public regardless of sectional lines, and not neglect Illinois, the keystone state, he said. He was sorry for the spirit of the speech of Mr. Hatch, as not bread enough. We must unite in improving the great lakes as well as the mighty Missis Any other idea is parrow and will not Congressman Murphy, of Iowa, and Governor Bross followed in support of the Henne pin canal, after which the convention adjourned until 2 p. m.

The convention was called to order sgain at 2:40 and the committee reported resolutions which were read by Gen. Beadle, of Dakota. The resolutions recite the necessity of the mmediate improvement of the Mississipp and Missouri rivers. They demand that the national government take steps, by sufficient appropriations, to render the Missippi navig able from the falls of St. Anthony to Its mouth; that there shall be a continuous channel of at least six feet of water in depth throughout its entire course, and that sufficient protection be furnished to prevent damage and destruction from ice. A liberal policy is demanded in the allotment of appropriations for river and harbor appropriations, so that the great commercial interests of the northwest may receive their just share.

Resolutions were also adopted urging the improvement of the Sault St. Marie canal, the Red riv r of the north and adjacent lakes, the Fox and Wiscomin rivers, the Chippewa river in Wisconsin, and the St. Croix river otween Wisconsin and Minnesota. The convention urged upon congress the necessity of continuing the sonual appropriation for light-houses on the Mississippi river and its princical tirbutaries, and suag and dredge toat service, on account of the great benefits reaulting therefrom lowing are the resolutions with regard to the Missouri river and the Hennepin canal: Resolved, That we earnestly recommend and urge present and permanent improvement of navigation of the Missou i river, upon a general and systematic plan, to prepare it for commerce by steamers and barger, and we urge the policy of large and continuous appro-priations by congress therefor. We further recommend that improvements be carried for ward as distinct and separate measures, and in not less than in five divisions of the river, and with United States engineers and civili ans resident thereon, with equal application of appropriations for this work commensurate with the wealth and growth of the great country tribu ary thereto, its re-meteress from eastern markets, and the fitness of the river for a great commerce, and the construction of ways at suitable points for boats against damage from ite. Resolved, That this convention urge upon the government to appoint upon the Missouri river commission engineers and civilians re-siding upon and interest d in the improve-ment of the Missouri, and whose other interterests are not is compatible with their duties a said commissioners.

Resolved, That in the opinion of this convention the enlargement of the lilinois and Mishigan canal and theextension of the same by the construction of a canal from the Illinoi river at Hennepin to the Mississippi river at Rock Island, then by connection of the great lakes with the upper Mississippi and giving a continuous line of water transportation from the Mississippi to the Atlantic seaboard, is demanded in the interest of cheap transportation, and the now immense and growing commerce of the northwest, and we call upon our senators and representatives in congress to urge the construction of such canal and the enlargement of the Illinois and Michigan

The resolutions were received enthusiasti-cally at various points in the text and were canal by the government.

T. Algent, of Illinois, offered the following Resolution:

Resolved, That inasmuch as the country west of the Alleghenies possesses more than hall west of the Alleghenies possesses more than half of the shipping country, and contributes more than three-fourths of the money expended by the federal government for public improvements, it is rank injustice to this great section that it receives only one-third of the money appropriated for river and harbor improvements as has so long been done. Judge Fry, of New York, then addressed the convention on the Florida ship canal, which, he said was the route by which our products should go to foreign markets, saving 1,600 miles, and avoiding the daugers of the guif stream. He reviewed the history of canals, declaring the Florida ship canal would be the best in the world.

At the conclusion of the address Mr. Rea, of Illinois, moved a resolution to go to the committee on resolutions, whom, he said, were not discharged.

Mr. Donelly, of Minnesota, moved the committee be discharged from further duty. The vote being in doubt, a division was called for and the motion lost.

The Fire Record,

Ознкозн, Wis ,Sept. 4. -At 4 o'clock to-day a fire broke out in the sash and door factory of F. H. McMillan & Co., and before the flames were brought under control, the flercest fire seen here since the great conflagration of 1875, was experiedced. The combustible material contained in the factory and the adjoining warehouses, together with a strong wind prevailing soon rendered the fire an alarming one, and dispatches were sent to outside cities for ald, but after three hours of desperate work the firemen succeeded in genting the fire into bounds, and now there is nothing but a smouldering ruin. Loss confined wholly to McMillan & Co., and will not be much less than $100,000; insurance $70,000.

A Protest from Good Templars. established while the state fair has been held in our city, be it

Resolved, That, we, the Omaha Beacon
Lodge of the Independent Order of Good Templars, do most carnestly protest against this innovation which will bring as much de-moralization to our citizens and place still greater temptation in the way of our boys. Resolved, That as citizens we demand that the board of managers reseind this action which will make Omaha still more widely known as a disgrace to the state on account of the number of calcons, legal and illegal, and the utter defiance of parts of the high licenses law specially relating to closing on the Sabbath day and the sale to minors. We also demand that no gambling apparatus be thus publicly operated, entising to their ruin the young men and boys attending.

Resolved, That as fathers, and mothers, and wives, we most carnestly beg that this time of pleasure be not turned into a time of constant anxiety and terror, lest our sons and husbands through the influence of liquor dis grace themselves and us and perchance commit crime bringing to us lasting shame and Recoived. That these resolutions be spread upon the records of our lodge, presented to the respectful attention of the board of managers and furnished to the daily press of our [Signed] COMMITTEE OF RESOLUTIONS, I. O. G. T.

The police are on the lookout and propose if possible to place the majority of the gentry under arrest be fore they have a chance to do any crooked work.

Friday morning three suspicious characters were arrested, John Hawkins, Frad. Riley and John Casully. Hawkins is well known here as a dangerous pickpecket and confidence man. About two form a new pool under the name of the years ago, in August, 1883, he came to town in company with a party of Omaha Indians and pitched his tent for a grand "Wild West" show on Sherman avenue, opposite the baseball park. He accoped in the receipts for one day and then iled. leaving the poor, deluded Indians behind nim. He was captured, however, brought large surveying party started cut to beback and heavily fined. He left the town | gin operations. The expectation is in shortly afterwards and has never shown himself here risce until this week. All three, Hawkins, Casully and Ruly were fined $20 and costs and given two hours to leave the city. -City Treasurer Buck was busily orgaged yesterday in paying off the city officials and

-Miss Helens Wagner, German dramatic reader, arrived in the city yesterday from an xtended trip in California and Texas. Miss Wagner is endeavoring to make arrangements to give some of her readings in Omaha some time during next week.

-A petition was circulated yesterday among the tax-payers of South Thirteeath street, praying the mayor to veto the ordinance passed at the last meeting of the city council for the paving of South Thirteenth street. The polition was signed quite freely.

-Jacob King, one of the worthly farmers of Millard precinct, came into the city Friday with a goodly load of fruits and vegetables which he proposes to exhibit at the fair. The showing made for Mr. King is a splendid one, and his exhibit is bound to take front

Chicago, Sept. 4.-Wheat dropped to the lowest point of the present crop year to-day, under very heavy selling for local and outside account. The market opened steady at Sile for October, but before the day closed had sold off 2c, and the latest trading was nearly at juside figures. No particular cause was assigned for the weakness beyond the assertion that the "Milwaukee crowd" - as it WHEREAS, For the sake of revenue the is termed-and a number of other heavy outboard of managers of the Omaha Exposition and Fair have agreed to permit the sale of liquor on the fair grounds Sept. 4-11, thus violating the law of the state and the custom market became very heavy and sonk under it. threw them overboard, and as a result, the market became very beavy and soult under it. St. Louis was first to exhibit signs of weakness and sold off nearly 2c before the market began to respond, and when it once became headed downward itsold off very rapidly. The hurried skeline brought out a great many small boldings in cases where margins had been exhausted, and this served to materially improves the versions. From 70 by terially increase the weakness. From 792c for October the market dropped off to 792c, ter October the market gropped on to 1910, with scarcely any transactions, although around the figures 802 an hundred thousand lots were bought and sold. Before the last downward rush began the feeling was quite panicky for a time, but became steadier in the afternoop, although very little in the shape of reaction was noted. Recripts continue small, but averaged down a very local reaction to the state of but export demard was declared to be very slight, and this was used as a weston by the bears to hammer prices. The close in the afterneon was fairly steady and about 130 under yesterday's closing figures.
